

Travel insurance: take it with you when you travel

Can you afford a travel medical emergency or to lose your hard earned travel dollars, putting yourself and your family out thousands of dollars?

Your government healthcare is very limited when stepping outside of your home province or territory, and out-of-pocket expenses during an unexpected emergency can add up.

While it might be more exciting to plan the fun aspects of your trip, we know it's also important to prepare for the unexpected. Travel insurance is the most important item you can take with you when you travel. If you get sick or injured outside your home province or territory, it's good to know travel insurance will be there to help.

Buy travel insurance because you might need:

- To go to the doctor or hospital in an emergency
- Assistance with foreign languages during a medical emergency
- To cancel your trip after situations such as new travel advisories or the unexpected sickness of a family member force you to lose all your non-refundable pre-paid travel costs
- To continue your trip or be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses if your flight is delayed due to weather conditions, volcanic eruption, or emergency road closures
- An air ambulance to bring you home if needed
- Help when a hospital demands up-front payment
- A few things to tide you over if your luggage doesn't arrive with you

Here, you'll find useful information about travel insurance, our All-inclusive Package and points to keep in mind to help you find coverage that meets your needs.

Eligibility, limitations and exclusions

Travel insurance coverage is subject to eligibility, limitations and exclusions. For full details, please refer to the policy and consult with your travel professional.

Things to be aware of:

- Travel insurance is for emergencies only – it doesn't cover everything.
- It's important to be up front about your pre-existing health conditions to make sure you get coverage that fits your needs.
- If you're over age 75, you may be asked to complete a medical questionnaire when applying for travel insurance. If you need help, check with your doctor about any answers you are unsure of.
- Read your policy to understand what it does and doesn't cover.
